Summary: They were on opposite ends, but they were so alike, so similar, they were perfect.

spectrum

His eyes were blue, dark like the night sky and just as endless.

(His hair was orange like the setting sun, leading up to the dark nights.)

He had hair as black as the shadows of the gym they spent their evenings in.

(His eyes were brown, and held a fire and warmth to them that drew people in.)

They were on opposite ends of the spectrum, but they were so alike, so similar, they complemented each other.

(They were perfect.)

>Ahh! I had no idea that this week was KageHina week, so I just threw this together. Probably sucks, ah well, but I love these dorks.

I don't own Haikyuu!.
